DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Yin et al. (US 2004/0102063 A1).

Yin et al. discloses an electrical contact arrangement, comprising: a first electrically conductive contact pad 20, a second electrically conductive contact pad (page 2, lines 6 and 7 of para [0021]), and an electrically conductive connection between the first and second contact pads, the two contact pads being arranged opposite each other and the connection being an electrical contact spring clamped between the two contact pads, the electrical pressure contact spring 11 comprising: a first contacting region 114 for contacting the first electrically conductive contact pad 20, a rounded contact tip being arranged in the first contacting region 114 for contacting the contact pad 20, the contact tip having an outer radius (R) which corresponds to one to three times the thickness of the wire (see fig. 6), a second contacting region 111 for contacting the second electrically conductive contact pad (page 2, lines 6 and 7 of para [0021]), and a compressing region 112, with at least one wire curvature, arranged between the first contacting region 114 and the second contacting region 111, a straight piece of wire 113 extending from the compressing region 112 and finishing in the contact tip running in the direction of the spring force, wherein the wire 113 is bent in the first contacting region 114, and wherein this wire 113 bend forms the contact tip, wherein the contact arrangement comprises means (the rounded tip of 114) by which the contact tip of the pressure contact spring 11 is prevented from penetrating through the first contact pad 20 when it penetrates into the first contact pad 20.

Art Unit: 2833

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 16-19, 21-28 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicants' arguments filed 10/30/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to Applicants' argument that the Yin et al. publication would not have taught or suggested a contact arrangement comprising means by which the contact tip of the pressure contact spring is prevented from penetrating through the first contact pad when it penetrates into said first contact pad, as recited in claim 15. Contrary to Applicants' argument, Yin et al. discloses all the limitations recited in claim 15, and thus same structure would reduce same results.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 2833

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
